

Carrying a Firearm in a Commercial Motor Vehicle

Carrying a firearm in a commercial vehicle is not federally regulated. Many commercial truck drivers believe that Federal Law prohibits them from carrying in a commercial truck. This is simply wrong. To be clear, there are no federal regulations on carrying a firearm in a commercial vehicle.

Don't assume you're legally carrying a fire arm if you're licensed in your state — some states won't honor your permits.

We know how dangerous it can be out on the road, and many of you have said you carry a gun for protection— understandably so.

Find out which states will honor your permits and which will not.
